

CALL FOR BIODIVERSITY ART COMPETITION

The world is blessed with a wide variety of living organisms which are interdependent. Their complexity provides humans with different services such as food, clean water, medicine and nutrient recycling. It is in this regard that the Center of Excellence in Biodiversity and Natural Resource Management (CoEB) is launching an Art Competition to beautify our new office. The CoEB is a knowledge management center consisting of a consortium of governmental and non-governmental environment-related research and higher learning institutions in Rwanda called nodes, coordinated by a central hub located at University of Rwanda, College of Science and Technology.

What we want: A drawing reflecting biodiversity and our mission "To enhance the knowledge of biodiversity conservation and natural resource management for sustainable development"

Eligibility- Must be a current student at Huye campus (any discipline) or a recent graduate within 2 years (based in Huye)*

Conditions: The art work should be:

- Original
- Reflecting biodiversity and the center's mission in Rwanda & the region.
- A drawing that if successful, the applicant can paint on the wall in the CoEB office building.

Submission process: You should send a picture of your drawing in a photo format or scanned to our email, coeb@ur.ac.rw or submit your drawing to our office in the former engineering building ,Huye campus. You should send also your CV with your contacts. The winner will be required to paint the drawing on a wall with 2m×2m dimension. All costs related to painting on the wall will be covered by the CoEB, but no accommodation fees. The winning submission will receive a certificate and prize. We need someone based in Huye because the mural will be paint at the center office.

Submission deadline: 28th February 2019
