

RESEARCH TRAINING IN DATA SCIENCE FOR HEALTH IN RWANDA (DST-HIRWA)

Shortlisted Candidates for the research fellowship in data science for health at the University of Rwanda

Data science has emerged as a transformative field with profound implications for health research in recent decades, policy, and practice. The University of Rwanda, in partnership with Washington University in St. Louis and the African Institute for Mathematical Sciences (AIMS), has spearheaded the development of a research training program focused on data science for health. It is a pleasure to announce the shortlisted candidates that applied for the research fellowship in data science for health at the University of Rwanda.
